

But in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men. – Matthew 15:9

invaindotheyworshipme.com

Look Up and See the Light

A couple days ago I woke up from a nap and realized that I had had a dream that might be worth sharing. So, here goes.

In my dream I was expecting Jesus to return at any moment. I heard a voice that told me to look up and see the light. I looked up at the sky and there was a brilliant light shining for all the world to see. However, the light wasn't entirely visible because there was a dense, dark cloud attempting to cover it up. Attempting is the key word. This light was shining so brightly that the dark cloud could not completely blot it out.

End of dream.

At our weekly Bible study group tonight, I shared this dream and someone suggested an interpretation. He said that the dark cloud could represent the sins that we dearly cling to, refusing to relinquish them.

I want to suggest a different meaning for the cloud. That would be that the light is the truth of God's Character which is Love Unlimited and the dark cloud is the lies we've been told that keeps us from knowing the full truth. As we learn more truth the cloud gradually diminishes, allowing more and more light to penetrate into our befuddled minds which brings a healing to our hearts and soul.

Happy Sabbath to all and much love,

Hannah

Copyright 2020 by Hannah